A software developer with over 5 years of experience in the industry. I began my journey working with PHP, but for the last 4 years, I've been dedicated solely to iOS development. As a professional, I pride myself on being patient, creative, and proactive in my work. I'm always willing to lend a helping hand to my colleagues and have no qualms about asking for help myself when needed. I relish the challenges that come with working in technology and take pleasure in learning new things and discussing them with others.
